“Live like you want is our anthem. The brief for designing the apartment was to create something comfortable and informal. And to do justice to this we created a space with simple planning, minimalistic furniture and neutral shades.”

A neutral colour pallet of cotton whites and mushrooms are used on the walls of the living room. The space is punctuated with forest green natural background of the tress.

The layout and linearity of the living space is broken by adding a visual barricade at the entrance to add aesthetics as well as create some privacy. The living room was divided into two as a formal sitting as well as a dining space. This huge space opens into west and has French windows overlooking lush green tress, which brings nature into this enclosed area.

The master bedroom was designed with a niche having a glass window, which looks into the living room. This niche is carved out to create a space for the child. This facilitates the lady of the house to keep an eye on the child while they relax in the living room.

A linear circulation is created for smooth movement of the inhabitants of the apartment. ©
